EX-TREASURER OF STATE GREEN TELLS PROBE ALL

Banks Which Participated in Graft Are Named.
One in Columbus.

PROSECUTORS ARE NOW CONFIDENT

Last Link in Chain Against Crooked Officials and Bankers Is Claimed to Have Been Welded Into Place and That Guilty Will Soon Be Brought to Justice.

Columbus, O., April 2.—Without promise of immunity, Charles C. Green, former state treasurer and cashier under Treasurers Cameron and McKinnon, has confessed to state probers his knowledge of state treasury grafts. His testimony is the most important link in the evidence which has been gathered, involving officials and bankers.

He told of the depositing of state money illegally in 10 banks and its restoration when examinations were to be made. Green was one of the last of those mixed up in the grafts to unburden his mind and conscience. State probers insist that neither he nor others who have told of their connection with the grafts have been promised immunity. None of those who confessed gave up until convinced that state probers had them cornered.

Names New Banks.

The Green statement corroborates that by H. W. Backus and F. J. Dawson, former secretaries of the Columbus Savings and Trust company, as to illegal deposits in that bank and goes further in involving others. These latter include those already sued and two additional banks, one in Columbus. Green is to go on the stand before Master Commissioner Okey.

The reason for a line of inquiry pursued by Attorney H. J. Booth for the state at one of the hearings was made plain when taken in connection with Green's statement. Mr. Booth asked particularly as to the size of the bag in which was carried the money between the Columbus Savings and Trust Company and the state treasury. Above the cashier's window is a little square door, not large enough for the satchel bag to go through. This point was hammered on to show that the person who carried the money go in by the back way, as a matter of necessity.

Green Sees Turner.

Yesterday the former cashier and treasurer spent some time with prosecuting Attorney E. C. Turner, who will prepare criminal charges for presentation to the grand jury when it meets April 14. Mr. Turner believes he can make a case of embezzlement against those who had a hand in the abduction of state funds. Whether a decision affirming the Medina Co. Common Pleas court, in which it was held that there is no embezzlement unless there is a defalcation, is a bar to prosecution, is a question which the state purposes to put up to the courts.

The banks, sued by the state are the Union National of Columbus and its predecessor, the old Merchants and Manufacturers, both of which are out of existence; the defunct Columbus Savings and Trust, the defunct Euclid Avenue Trust Company of Cleveland, and the old Cincinnati Trust Company, the Marine National Bank of Ashtabula, the National Bank of Ashtabula, the First National Bank of Cleveland and the Hough Banking and Trust Company of Cleveland.

Secret Conferences Out.

In the course of his story to the state probers, Green told of several conferences in Columbus which he attended. These began when the state inserted the probe into the wrecked institution and continued until a week ago. One of those who participated was Homer L. Rose, Green's brother-in-law, now a Canton banker. He will be called upon to relate the story of these conferences on the witness stand, it is anticipated.

State attorneys yesterday said the evidence now in hand gives them the opportunity to laugh at what was once the favorite argument of the defense. Repeatedly, they said, they had been confronted with the charge that the suits were not brought in good faith, that they were for pure political purposes and that the state had no foundation on which to build to prove its case. The laugh is now on the other side, they said.

Green's story was told the state on the advice of his friends. He was accompanied to Columbus and had with him his personal attorney, former Republican State Central Committee member R. H. McCloud, of London.

With the telling of Green's relations with the treasury transactions, the bottom virtually drops out of the defense in all the civil cases, including those against the McKinnon estate, against Cameron personally and the bondsmen. There is known to be a movement on foot on the part of the bondsmen to throw down their hands and arrange a settlement. The bone of contention is the rate of interest.

From one source it was learned yesterday that the bondsmen will contend that a low rate of interest, say 2 or 2* per cent, should be the basis of settlement. The state sued for 6 per cent. If the contention of the defendants prevails, the amount the state would recover would be in the neighborhood of $150,000.

Withdrawal from further defense in the suits against the bondsmen was scented yesterday. The state will continue to press the present hearing and then take up the cases of other banks which have so far refused to admit examiners.

Risen From the Flood

Columbus, O., April 1.—(Special)—In a proclamation, Governor Cox says: "Ohio has arisen from the flood. Such a pitiless blow from nature as we sustained would have wiped out society and destroyed governments in other days, but our commonwealth, refreshed by the tears of the American people, stands ready from today to meet the crisis alone. We can not speak our gratitude to President Wilson for Federal aid, to the Red Cross, to States, municipalities, trade organizations and individuals that sent funds and supplies. They will never know their contribution to humanity. The relief situation so far as food and clothing are concerned, is in hand. The legislature has recessed for a week for the purpose of ascertaining the extent of the damage to public works that must be repaired by legislation. The Red Cross, acting in concert with the State Relief Commission, will begin a movement to rehabilitate the homes of the poor. The calamity has its compensations—in that the State now knows its resources in vitality and citizenship, and we are conscious that the depth of human sympathy will never be sounded. Thankful to her friends who succored her, Ohio faces tomorrow serene and confident."

Uses Hatpin To Save Self And Children

Chillicothe, O., April 2.—Mrs. Clem Search, Akron St., had a remarkable experience during the flood. Suffering from a broken leg, she managed to work her way on crutches to a mantle, with a child aged 5 in her arms. Vigal, aged 9, stood on a table. The woman saw a hat float by in the room and gave her an inspiration. She took the pin out and dug a hole in the ceiling. By night time, she had a hole big enough to thrust the children through. By Thursday morning she got back to the table, and wrapping herself and children in an oil cloth, waited until 3 p. m. in the afternoon.

Papers From Nearby Towns Arrive Today

Newspapers from Circleville, Chillicothe and Athens arrived in the city Wednesday, the first from the towns to arrive anything like on time for one week.

Little by little railroad traffic is being resumed, and by the end of this week mail will not suffer serious delay, it is believed.

SALARY NOT BIG ENOUGH FOR 'EM

We Ask Too Great a Sacrifice, Says President.

"THE SERVICE IS HAMPERED"

Mr. Wilson Declares It Is Impossible For Him to Get the Men He Wants. Troubled by Repeated Refusals—Expert Says Salaries Should Be at Least $25,000 a Year.

Washington, Apr. 2.—Pres. Wilson is seriously troubled by repeated refusals of prominent Democrats to accept high diplomatic posts on account of financial inability to maintain the positions, and he has practically appealed to the country to support him in a request that congress pay ambassadors and ministers enough to enable poor men to represent this country abroad.

This appeal was made in a statement concerning the refusal by William McCombs of the ambassadorship to

CHARLES W. ELIOT AND WILLIAM M. MCCOMBS.

France, which was based solely on the ground that he could not afford to take the place.

Mr. McCombs' refusal followed that of Richard Olney and Charles W. Eliot, former president of Harvard, to both of whom the ambassadorship to the court of St. James was offered. Neither could afford to take the place. Whitelaw Reid, the former ambassador, maintained an establishment that cost him $100,000 a year. Ambassador Herrick, now holding the post refused by Mr. McCombs, is said to be spending more than $100,000 a year in keeping up the embassy.

It is known that Norman S. Mack has been hesitating about going as ambassador to Vienna because he fears it would cost too much, and it is said that H. B. Fine, dean of the faculty at Princeton, cannot make up his mind to be ambassador to Berlin, being a poor man.

Representative Nicholas Longworth not long ago made a report on the subject and introduced a bill appropriating money to build embassies. It failed.

The salary of an ambassador is $17,500 a year, and an expert opinion given here today by John Barrett, who has been in the diplomatic service as minister, is that it is too low.

Estimates Of Fortune Of the Late J. P. Morgan

New York, April 2.—Estimates of the fortune left by J. P. Morgan, as made in the financial district range from $75,000,000 to $300,000,000, this sum including his art collections.

It is understood that the financier's will is of comparatively recent date, but no intimation has been made as to when it will be given to the public. Mr. Morgan's personal counsel declines to discuss the matter.

Those who shared Mr. Morgan's close friendship predict that there will be large charitable and public bequests, although it is conceded that the son of J. P. Morgan will doubtless receive the bulk of the fortune. That Mr. Morgan's realty holdings were comparatively small and by far the greater part of the estate, it is understood, will be found to be made up of gilt-edged securities.

Judging by his former quiet philanthropy, those who speculated as to possible bequests thought the Metropolitan Museum of Art, the Episcopal church and perhaps Yale and Harvard universities, would come in for handsome benefactions.

Mr. Morgan was an enthusiastic church worker and throughout his mature life was one of the most important laymen in the Episcopal church in this country.

When in the United States he attended all the conventions of the Episcopal church, always making the trip in a special train entertaining lavishly the while.

Mr. Morgan was a member of the congregation of St. George's Episcopal church in this city, was a vestryman and upon occasions passed one of the contribution boxes.

In 1901 Mr. Morgan donated $15,000 to St. George's church for erection of a parish house.

When the triennial convention of the Episcopal church was held in San Francisco in 1901, Mr. Morgan not only carried a number of friends in a private car, but sent another special train at his own expense, bearing 100 Episcopal clergymen.

It was nothing for Mr. Morgan to spend from $60,000 to $70,000 during a triennial convention of the church on the special trains, entertainments and for rent of private houses. He always leased a mansion in the city in which the convention was held, for his temporary residence.

Mr. Morgan in connection with the 1910 convention in Cincinnati, Ohio, spent nearly $100,000. As a lay delegate, he made a speech at Cincinnati on church affairs which created a sensation because of the earnestness of the speaker.

Mr. Morgan was one of the heaviest contributors when the cathedral of St. John the Divine was built in this city. It was never publicly stated how much Mr. Morgan gave, but it has been reported that he donated at least $500,000.

Mr. Morgan gave $25,000 to light St. Paul's cathedral in London with electricity.

Mr. Morgan and Pope Pius X. were warm friends.

LOSES LIFE FOR OTHERS

Swimmer Leaves Temporary Safety to Attempt Rescue.

Ann Arbor, Mich., April 1.—Two men students and a former woman student of the University of Michigan were drowned in a canoe accident on the Huron river here. They were Miss Ella Rysdort of Spring Lake, Mich.; Henry Bacon of Pontiac, Mich.; and Arthur Crandall of Brockton, N. Y. Their canoe had been wrecked in the rapids near a dam above the city. Crandall, an expert swimmer, left temporary safety to secure aid for the others and was swept over the dam and drowned. Miss Rysdort sank from exhaustion and Bacon lost his life in saving the fourth member of the party, Miss Jane Hicks of Detroit.

Folk, Charles E. Tibbals, Clyde Tibbals, Esther Jones, William Evert Hessey, unknown boy aged 3 or 4. Fifteen bodies have not been recovered.

NEGRO USED LIFE LINE; SAVED EIGHTEEN LIVES.

Columbus, O., April 1.—"Throwing out the life line" was the work of James Washington, colored, of the city cleaning department, when the floodtide raged on the West Side. Washington tied a rope to a tree just east of Centner avenue, in Sullivan avenue, and attached the other end to railroad ties across the street. As the houses from Glenwood avenue were swept down with the current toward him, Washington called to the people to catch the rope. Then he was able to rescue from death drew them ashore. In this way he was able to rescue from death 18 people, most of them Italians.

GOES TO ST. JAMES

Editor Walter Page Appointed Ambassador to Great Britain.

Washington, April 1.—Walter H. Page of Garden City, Long Island, editor of World's Work and a member of Doubleday, Page & Company, publishers, has accepted President Wilson's offer to be ambassador to Great Britain. He was born at Cary, N. C., Aug. 15, 1865, and was educated at Randolph-Macon college and at Johns Hopkins. He married the daughter of Dr. William Wilson of Michigan in 1880. He was editor of the Forum from 1890 to 1895 and of the Atlantic Monthly from 1896 to 1899, and has been editor of the World's Work since 1900. He is the author of "The Rebuilding of the Old Commonwealths" and other works.

Flood Sufferer's Neck Broken.

Columbus, O., April 1.—Dr. Otto Dieterman's death, which occurred at his home, 623 West Town street, in the flood district, was due to an accident in which his neck was broken. He had been ill for about two weeks previous to the flood, with tonsillitis and pneumonia, but was better, and when the water receded he tried to clean up about the home. As he was walking through the hall of the house he fell, striking his head against the wall, and when his mother reached him he was dead.

GARRISON SAYS OHIO AGAIN ON ITS FEET

Secretary of War Holds Danger of Food Famine Passed.

Columbus, O., April 1.—"Ohio is now on her feet. The emergency is past so far as need of participation of federal authorities in relief work is concerned," said Secretary of War Lindlay M. Garrison after a conference here with Governor Cox.

General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, U. S. A., who with other army officers accompanied the secretary of war from Cincinnati, joined his chief in high praise of the way the sudden emergency had been met by Governor Cox, General John C. Speaks, the National Guard and citizens' relief committees over the state.

At Dayton General Wood paid General Charles X. Zimmerman, Fifth infantry, the highest compliment one soldier can pay another, telling him he doubted that regulars could have taken care of the flood developments as well as the National Guard has done.

The United States government's further flood work in this state will be confined to sanitation. The secretary thought, after inspection of Hamilton and Dayton, that the danger of food famine was passed.

Akron Strike Declared Off.

Akron, O., April 1.—On the advice of George Speed of Pittsburgh and Jack White, I. W. W. organizers, a mass meeting of the striking rubber workers voted to end the strike which has been on since Jan. 27, and return to work at once. At one time strike leaders declared that 15,000 rubber workers here had walked out, while rubber manufacturers claimed that only half that number had quit, the others being forced out of work by the strike.

Send Tires and Rubber Boots.

Akron, O., April 1.—In response to a telegram from John H. Patterson of Dayton asking for automobile tires and rubber boots, the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company and the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company each sent a carload of supplies to Dayton.

OSLER AGE LIMIT FOR U. S. JUDGES

McReynolds Bars Lawyers Over
Sixty For Federal Bench.

Washington.—No lawyer of more than sixty years of age and no lawyers with large corporation and railroad connections need apply for appointment on the federal bench.

This announcement was made by Attorney General McReynolds, who received delegations from Virginia and Maryland in behalf of lawyers of those states now being urged for the vacancy in the Fourth circuit court of the United States, composed of the states of North and South Carolina, Virginia, Maryland and West Virginia. By this announcement Mr. McReynolds eliminates almost the entire field of aspirants from Maryland and Virginia. The half dozen lawyers from Virginia who are advanced for judicial honors are either more than sixty years of age or have large corporation connections. The lone Marylander, E. C. Devenmon, was eliminated because he has had no previous experience on the bench and has had no practice in admiralty courts.

The Virginia delegation was stunned by the announcement. The men eliminated include Charles V. Meredith of Richmond, who is sixty-two years old; Lucien B. Cooke of Roanoke, who is division counsel for the Norfolk and Western railroad; Walter H. Taylor of Norfolk, who is counsel for the late H. H. Rogers' Virginia railroad; W. Leigh Williams of Norfolk, who is counsel for the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, and A. W. Patterson and H. R. Polard, barred on account of the age limit. Dr. Minor Lyle, dean of the Law School of the University of Virginia, is the only aspirant now in the field from Virginia who comes within the McReynolds rule.

There are half a dozen judgeship appointments which the president has to make. Most of them are carried over from the Taft administration and were tied up in the senate filibuster against all the civil appointments made by Mr. Taft after his election.

It is taken here that the rule laid down by the attorney general applies to all judicial appointments that will come up during the coming four years. It will apply equally to the United States supreme court as to the district courts.

Just now there is a pressing demand upon the president to appoint a chief justice of the United States court of claims. The work of this tribunal has been retarded since the retirement of Chief Justice Peck and the refusal of the senate to confirm the promotion of Associate Justice Booth for this place.

Farewell Reception

The Mary Boyd Hale and Brotherhood Bible Classes extend a cordial invitation to all to attend a reception in honor of the Rev. William I. Campbell, this Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the Presbyterian church.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

Mrs. Frank Jackson gave an elaborate six o'clock dinner Tuesday night in honor of her sister, Miss Ruth Craig, who was celebrating her birthday.

It was a beautifully appointed dinner of five courses, and its pleasure enhanced by the introduction of April fool suggestions and take-offs.

The table, brilliantly lighted with scarlet candles, and April first effects in decoration, was laid with eighteen covers, and around it were grouped as pretty a bunch of "buds" as one could wish to see.

The honor guest looked very sweet and girlish in a dainty frock of lavender tissue over pink, with corsage bouquet of pink and lavender sweet peas. Mrs. Jackson was wearing blue silk and Mrs. E. B. Kehoe of Lebanon, who is her guest, wore white over pink.

After the dinner the guests enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. Jackson's beautiful new home, clusters of pink and white roses adding adornment to the parlor and living room.

The dinner guests were Mrs. Kehoe, Misses Craig, Nina Dahl, Helen Harper, Mary Tysor, Ercel Porter, Mary Weaver, Lillian Davis, Dorothy Fullerton, Dorothy Saxton, Ruth McCoy, Constance Ballard, Lucy Edna Pine, Edna Fenner, Ruth Van Kirk, Marie Mobley, Ada Woodward.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Marchant and son, Mr. Rollo Marchant, have returned from a three and a half months' trip in the south and west. The Marchants sailed from New York for Panama and after a stop at the Isthmus continued their ocean voyage, stopping at all the ports in Central America and in Mexico, and finally landing at San Francisco, Cal. After an extended stay in California they visited the Grand canon, Colorado Springs, Kansas City, Mo., and other points enroute home. They experienced some flood difficulty enroute from St. Louis, having to return from Indiana to St. Louis and make another start via Big Four to Indianapolis and over the Pennsylvania to Columbus. Mr. Rollo Marchant arrived from Columbus Wednesday, Mr. and Mrs. Marchant waiting there for their trunks.

Mrs. E. B. Kehoe, of Lebanon, is the guest of Mrs. Frank Jackson.

Earl McCoy received word from his brother, Lon, in Indianapolis, Ind., today. Mr. McCoy and family went safely through the flood of that city, experiencing the usual inconveniences. There were not many lives lost in Indianapolis, but no heat, no light and no street cars running.

Dr. Paul Hildebrand and wife have returned to this city to make their future home and are occupying the Hildebrand residence on Temple St. Dr. Hildebrand, a graduate of the University of Michigan, will engage in the practice of the Homeopathic School of Medicine, in Washington. Dr. Hildebrand's aunts, Misses Etta and Leah Rannels, who have occupied the Hildebrand home for the past five years, returned today to their former home in Wilmington, when they expect to build.

Miss Molly Evick returned from Dayton Wednesday morning, after spending a couple of days with relatives she went over to seek.

Mrs. Joe McKenna and two children arrived from Dayton Tuesday evening and are the guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Oscar Kellhofer.

Mrs. Will Davenport has received word from Dayton of the safety of her brother, Mr. J. H. Long and family, formerly of this city.

Miss Nell Ireland arrived from the O. W. U. Tuesday night having visited a school friend in Ashland since last Thursday.

Mr. Pete Tracey and Joe Bailey returned home from Columbus Monday night. They found their brother-in-law, R. P. Harley and family all safe but having lost everything they had.

Mrs. Kimble's daughter, Mrs. Friend and family, came down from Dayton Monday. They had a thrilling experience in the flood, the water was up to their second story. They climbed on some boards across from there window to a four-story brick factory, from which they were then taken out in boats to the St. Mary's Institute. They lost everything in their home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Murray and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Peddicord made a trip to Dayton in the Murray's car Tuesday to look up Washington friends. They found the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Weakley and Mrs. Rich Westerfield, completely flooded, the waters reaching over the basement in the second floor. Oriental rugs and a quantity of handsome furniture had been carried to the attic by faithful servants of the family and saved from utter destruction.

The Vandemans have had their spacious apartment house in Daytonview, filled with refugees until Tuesday and gave to them the best of care. Mrs. Van Deman's maid was drowned.

Mrs. Van Winkle Clark, who left the home of Mr. D. H. VanWinkle last Wednesday, was unable to reach her home in Daytonview until Friday.

The Murrays and Peddicords also visited Mrs. Robert Schenck, who is quite well, although in the usual plight of every one with nothing but a furnace for a cook stove. Mr. Murray says the millionaire and the pauper are now on the same plane in Dayton, and one just as anxious for food as the other, standing side by side in the bread line. They found the martial law strictly enforced and their pass a necessity.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Weakley, Mrs. Richard Westerfield and sons, Ashur and Richard, arrived from Dayton Wednesday evening to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Peddicord while their home is being restored to a livable condition.

reach her. The home of the Zollingers was half a square out of the flood zone, but their wholesale grocery under water to the second floor and Mr. Zollinger estimates his loss between $6,000 and $10,000. Mrs. Zollinger writes of the drowning of Clark Jamison, a well known attorney of Piqua.

Real Work to Be Done

The General Assembly of the state has adjourned until next Monday. During the time which must elapse between the date of adjournment and the date on which the legislative body will again convene, each member is charged with the duty of thoroughly informing himself as to the effect of the disasters of the last week, and this week upon the community he represents.

It is high time that the people of the state should have a complete understanding with themselves as to the flood conditions. There is a cause for these regularly recurring disasters and a remedy also. People should, if possible, through their chosen public servants ascertain that cause to a certainty and if possible remove it and if it is not possible to do that then to take the necessary steps to avoid the consequences.

Floods and fires we have always had since history began and they will probably continue to distress mankind as long as man is compelled by the order of things to battle with nature and as long as man is subservient to the caprices of the elements. But these disasters, or the consequences, rather, which flow from them should be of more infrequent occurrence.

In the present crisis the legislative body of the state is compelled to deal with the problem of so reforming the laws of the state as to enable stricken communities as such to rehabilitate themselves.

There is at the present time a vast number of restrictive laws which prevent communities from raising a sufficient amount of revenue by taxation, to repair the damage done.

Under ordinary conditions those restrictive laws are well enough as measures designed to prevent extravagant expenditures of the public revenues, but in situations such as Dayton, Hamilton, Columbus and many other Ohio cities and towns find themselves at present these laws are a hindrance rather than a help to the very people designed to be benefited.

To loosen the tie which now holds too tightly is the task of the law-makers and is not an easy one.

Some way must be devised to inject enough elasticity into the present code to make it capable of covering the present contingency.

With an early realization of this task and its serious import, the law-makers who have been inclined to foist upon the people of Ohio, many laws of doubtful wisdom, have found an outlet for their pent-up energies which will turn their thoughts and actions away from the dangerous and the experimental, and direct them in lines of real work of worth and substance.

From a condition in which the genius and mental activity of the legislators grew restive for lack of real opportunity to act, the law-makers have suddenly, by the coming of calamity, been confronted with a condition of affairs which will require all of their time, genius and energy.

It is time now for real work when work is pressing to be done. Only a few days ago it was a time for speculation and consequent fear of danger from threatened legislative enactment.

China Looks Upon Us as a Big Brother

By Rev. Dr. GEORGE B. VOSBURGH, Who Has Spent Years in China

CHINA looks upon the United States as a big brother. It needs our guidance and our good will.

Naturally the nations of Europe DID NOT WANT A REPUBLIC IN CHINA. Had the new government of the Chinese been a monarchy, with precisely the same strength behind the throne as is now behind the republican government there, the European group would undoubtedly have granted China the recognition she asked.

The United States, however, was in a different position. It would gain nothing by the partition of China. As a republic, as a humanitarian nation, this country was LOOKED TO BY THE CHINESE FOR MORAL SUPPORT IN THEIR NATION'S CRISIS.

We of America had made many splendid friends in China when we returned the Boxer indemnity money. All eyes and hearts turned now to our shores, and the visioning men who are transforming China LOOKED TOWARD A MIGHTY ALLIANCE OF FRIENDSHIP between the oldest and newest republic, in which they would work together for good in every way.

FROM EVERY STANDPOINT IT IS TO THE INTEREST OF THE UNITED STATES TO PRESERVE THE INTEGRITY OF CHINA. LOOK AT THE QUESTION IN ANY WAY YOU LIKE, FROM THE COMMERCIAL ASPECT OR THE SPIRITUAL, OR FROM ANY POINT BETWEEN, AND IT BECOMES EVIDENT TO THE BROAD SEEING MIND THAT THIS COUNTRY AND CHINA ALIKE WOULD PROFIT FROM SUCH AN ALLIANCE; THAT IT WOULD HELP TO INSTILL HARMONY INTO THE DISORDER OF THE WORLD AND WOULD TAKE US A STEP FARTHER TOWARD THE BROTHERHOOD OF MAN.

Poetry For Today

OUR BROTHERS ARE IN NEED!

The rivers rise above them,
Our brothers starve and die,
And we who deeply love them
Must answer to their cry;
No thought of gain must swerve us,
From God's most tender creed
Of love and help and service
To those in better need.

Our brothers want assistance,
But not of gold alone;
They call across the distance
With all the strength they own
For faith that does not falter,
For love that understands,
For hearts that do not alter,
For strong and willing hands.

The rivers rise above them,
They strive with fire and flood,
We aid—because we love them
And they are of our blood—
All thought of self is banished,
Lifted the pall of greed;
The barriers are banished,
Our brothers are in need.

—Berton Braley in Cincinnati Post.

GIVE ALL TO LOVE.

Give all to love;
Obey thy heart;
Friends, kindred, days,
Estate, good fame,
Plans, credit and the Muse—
Nothing refuse.

'Tis a brave master;
Let it have scope;
Follow it utterly,
Hope beyond hope;
High and more high
It dives into noon,
With wing unspent,
Untold intent;
But it is a god
Knows its own path
And the outlets of the sky.

It was never for the mean;
It requirith courage stout,
Souls above doubt,
Valor unbending;
Such 'twill reward—
They shall return
More than they were,
And ever ascending.

Leave all for love;
Yet, hear me, yet,
One word more thy heart behoved
One pulse more of firm endeavor—
Keep thee today,
Tomorrow, forever,
Free as an Arab
Of thy beloved.

Cling with life to the maid;
But when the surprise,
First vague shadow of surmise,
Flits across her bosom young,
Of a joy apart from thee,
Free be she, fancy free;
Nor do thou detain her vesture's
hem,
Nor the palest rose she flung
From her summer diadem.
Though thou loved her as thyself,
As a self of purer clay;
Though her parting dims the day,
Stealing grace from all alive;
Heartily know,
When half gods go
The gods arrive.

—Ralph Waldo Emerson.

NATION NEEDS MORE CATTLE.

Demand For Meat Shown by Big Changes in Export Figures.

Washington. — The decrease in the meat supply available for exportation is illustrated sharply by the February export figures, just compiled by the statistical division of the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce. They show the number of cattle exported in the eight months ended with last month as 12,656 head against 270,219 head in the corresponding months of 1907 and the quantity of fresh beef exported as 4,709,047 pounds against 175,806,649 pounds in the same months. That this shortage in the exportations is due in part at least to an actual reduction in the number of cattle in the United States is evidenced by the fact that the total number of cattle on farms, according to figures of the department of agriculture, on Jan. 1 last was only 56,527,000 against 72,534,000 on Jan. 1, 1907.

Still another evidence of the demand in the United States for an increase in its cattle supply is found in the figures of the department of commerce, which show an enormous increase in the importation of cattle, the number imported into the United States in the eight months ended with last month being 222,000 head against 12,513 head in the corresponding months of 1907.

The table which follows shows for the years 1907 and 1913 the number and value of cattle on farms in the United States, of those imported, of those exported and the quantity and value of fresh beef exported, the figures relating to the eight months ended with February of the years named:

	1907.	1913.
Number on farms Jan. 1.	72,534,000	56,527,000
No. imported, 8 mos....	12,513	222,000

No. exported, 8 mos....	270,219	12,656

The item in the Madison County Democrat stating that Maude Adams, the noted actress, was born near Summerford, Madison county, was incorrect. She first saw the light at Salt Lake City, Utah. Her father, James Kisskadden, was born near Summerford. Miss Adams was but 18 months old when she had her first theatrical experience and was five years of age when she went on the stage permanently.

An old citizen states that "if it rained on Easter Sunday there would follow seven rainy Sundays." As there was a heavy rain on Easter this year we should expect rain on the Sabbath for some time to come. The old gentleman above quoted has kept a record on this matter for more than 50 years and the saying has never been verified in all that time, so he begins to think the adage a fake or a harmless superstition.

A Mechanicsburg feeder sold 375 head of lambs Saturday averaging 70 pounds in weight, for which he received 9 cents per pound. They were fed just four months and during this time just doubled in weight.

John Depew, a farmer, was captured near Hamden, Saturday, following an exciting chase and held on a charge of robbing rural mail boxes in that vicinity. He had been suspected for some time. He has served a prison term once before for putting sand in sheep wool to increase the weight, as was alleged by the authorities.

On account of the small pox scare, the board of education has closed the following schools: Plattsburg, Harmony, Tanyard, Wilson, Brighton Lisbon, Jones and the high school at Plattsburg. Mr. Ed. McLean, son of John R. McLean, of Enquirer fame, has just purchased the three high stepping harness horses, Nala, Lady Dilham, and Elegant Dilgam, for $50,000. These horses are winners of scores of blue ribbons, championship prizes and challenge cups at the leading American horse shows. Nala was a trotting bred stallion in a Missouri country town when discovered and converted into a high stepper. He has won the championship of the National Horse Show four times, and is practically invincible. He has made a record never equaled in this country.

There are accidents unavoidable and there are accidents avoidable.

The awful catastrophe that has wrought such havoc the past week was unavoidable because it was an exception to the ordinary movements of nature for which man had fully prepared to meet.

There will be in our own city and many other places accidents that are avoidable and unnecessary.

Reference is made to reckless automobile driving and it seems that few persons who own and run machines are able to resist the speeding. Laws have been passed regulating the speed of these formidable engines, yet it is not an exaggeration that nine out of ten owners of automobiles fully and knowingly violate them.

It is utterly impossible for any driver to stop a machine within reasonably safe distance when running at a speed faster than 8 miles an hour, and when children who are thoughtless and older persons who are bewildered come suddenly upon the highway accidents more or less serious are sure to result.

Any one who has a watch that is approximately correct can give a very accurate estimate of the speed of an automobile by counting the seconds that elapse while the machine goes a certain distance.

From Fayette to Main street on Court is approximately 400 feet.

A machine that will cover this distance in 30 seconds is traveling at the rate of 9 miles an hour; in 25 seconds the rate would be 11 miles an hour; in 20 second, 14 miles; 15 second 18 miles; 12 seconds 22 1/2 miles; 10 seconds, 27 miles; 8 seconds, 34 miles; 7 seconds, 39 miles.

More than once machines have been timed and have made the distance on the above square in 7 seconds. On a resident street machines have made 500 feet in 7 seconds. This is at a rate of a mile a minute, and on this street children are accustomed to play.

200,000,000 LIVE IN UTTER DARKNESS

Mrs. Lena Leonard Fisher, of Cleveland, Ohio, who has been accomplishing great work in the missionary field in the land of the Mohammedans, in a recent address on conditions of the country and people said:

"Over 200,000,000 live under the darkness and superstition of this religion, and until about five or six years ago the Methodist church had done little or nothing to carry the religion of Christ to them until our own Bishop Hatzell opened up the field and carried the gospel to them. Even now this religion claims 1,000 converts a year to one for Protestantism. This is accounted for largely by the low standards of their morals, and because the things required of them to become good Mohammedans were so easy.

"The principal requirements of Mohammedanism are: First, Recitation of the creed. Second, the prayers. Third, giving of alms. Fourth, observing of one month of fasting. Fifth, pilgrimages to Mecca. The creed was for most part the acknowledgment of Mohammed as their God. Prayers must be said five times daily. Only one-fourth of their income was required. During fasting month no food or water was allowed to pass their lips during daylight, but notwithstanding this the food bills are larger for this month than any other in the year, as they would gorge themselves at night. Pilgrimages to Mecca are among their most solemn obligations.

"While these pilgrimages are primarily for religious purposes, yet words cannot describe the awfulness of the scenes enacted within the city walls by the multitudes who thronged there. It seems there is no call to holiness, to virtue, to purity, but that religion and morality are utterly divorced.

MORE OUT-DOOR LIVING.

And Death Rate Will Be Lowered.

Statistics prove that the death rate is very much greater in the winter months than in the summer, and that the lack of fresh air is largely responsible for this condition.

If the system becomes rundown, blood thin and watery, circulation poor, no appetite, don't dose with drugs, but take our delicious cod liver and iron tonic Vinol, not a patent medicine, as everything in it is named on every package and if it does not give you a hearty appetite, enrich the blood and create strength, we will return your money; that shows our faith in Vinol.

A case has just come to our attention from Albany, N. Y. Mrs. H. Hartman says: "I was in a rundown condition for about five years until this spring, when I learned what a good tonic and strengthener Vinol is. It is certainly the best tonic I have ever used and it has done wonders for me."

Madison Mills

Our village is again quiet after several days of suspense regarding the whereabouts of friends and relatives in the flooded towns of the state.

E. W. Douglas, while en-route to Massillon on the 24th inst., was detained in Columbus until Saturday evening, and even then had difficulty in getting a pass from the city.

Quite a number from this section were in Columbus last Sunday viewing the flood stricken district.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Brown visited with Mr. and Mrs. Philip Uhrig last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Dorn and family of Sedalia spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Cook.

Mrs. Peter Stobbs is reported quite low with little hope of recovery.

The W. C. T. U. was entertained Wednesday, April 3rd at the home of Mrs. E. W. Douglas.

Mr. and Mrs. Cal Campbell spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. John Campbell.

Dr. Roy Adkins, recently located at Hughes property, is now ready for business, and the people of the community are glad that we have a physician near at hand.

Messrs. H. S. Grim and John Osborn were in this vicinity last Sunday on their way home from Columbus.

Samuel Warner, L. W. Churtz, Mrs. Samuel Warner and Mrs. L. W. Churtz visited with Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Warner Saturday and Sunday.

This great stream of immorality is contributed to by the three countries of Asia, Africa and Europe, so that from the far southern shores of Zanzibar to the coral strands of India and the bleak regions of Russia the Mohammed spreads his prayer rug on the ground with his feet toward Mecca and offers up the prayers of the Koran. Let it be remembered that the English translations of the Koran are not at all perfect. The original contains so much that is obscene and vile that it cannot be printed.

"This religion permits its devotees to marry at least four wives. They have no homes, only staying places of many wives, many mothers full of misery, woe and child marriage. A man may divorce his wife for a reason or no reason. All he needs to do is to say, 'I divorce you' and she must leave his home to be a thing of the streets. I learned of one instance where a girl of sixteen had been divorced twenty times. Only one per cent of the married women live with their husbands until death.

"They are taught that a lie is justifiable in war, to justify a wrong and always to women. The whole fabric is steeped in deception. The sanitary conditions of their cities is unspeakable and undecidable."

WILL TAKE UP AND DEVELOP THE CHINESE POLICY

Washington, April 1.—The entire membership of both houses of the first Chinese national assembly under republican auspices has been elected, according to official advices. The first meeting will be April 8, at Peking.

The Chinese congress will be more numerous than the American legislative body, there being about 800 members in the lower body and 300 in the upper chamber.

At the first meeting the members will exercise a double function, being in the first place delegates to a constitutional convention, for the body is charged with drafting a constitution and establishment of a permanent form of government. After that function is over the members will resolve themselves into legislators.

The imminence of the meeting of this first assembly has brought President Wilson's administration to a prompt discussion as to whether the Chinese republic is to be recognized immediately or whether the United States shall join other powers in extending recognition only after the Chinese legislature has met and acted upon the proposed constitution.

Secretary Bryan's utterances at Trenton and a long conference with the Chinese minister here Sunday are regarded as indications of the adoption of the former policy.

Simplified Spelling Board Issues Fourth List.

New York.—The simplified spelling board has issued a "fourth list of simplified spellings." The recommendations are comprised in thirty rules, some of which involve changes more noticeable than any hitherto set forth.

Some of the recommendations in the list are:

A circular sent out by the board says of its thousands of supporters:

"Allowing for the necessity and indeed desirable proportion of criticism and doubt which always accompanies new proposals, we may say that this great body of educated men and women, no matter in what degree they use the simplified spellings themselves, will hereafter advise teachers to teach and children to use these new spellings."

The reader is urged not to be "too much indignant by the od appearance of the word. Any change must look odd at first."

GAS BOMBS FOR CRIMINALS.

Paris Police Use Them in Capturing a Homicidal Lunatic.

Paris.—A weapon for the firing of asphyxiating bombs, devised after the recent siege of the automobile bandits in their strongholds, was used for the first time in the capture of a negro who had become suddenly mad in the Auteuil quarter, threatening every one with a loaded revolver.

Detectives chased the man from room to room in a house where he had taken refuge, firing gas bombs as they went. The fugitive was finally cornered on the roof of the house in a state of semi-asphyxiation. He was quite powerless and was transferred to a hospital.

Mrs. Stutz Finds $2,500 Pearl in an Oyster.

Passaic, N. J.—August Stutz, proprietor of a casino, is telling his friends how he got a pearl worth $2,500 through the purchase of 44 cents' worth of oysters.

Stutz says his wife bought the oysters from a peddler. While she was eating one of them her teeth struck something hard and large and smooth. It looked like a pink pebble and was the size of a marble. Stutz says a New York jeweler offered him $2,500 for it.

REMAINS OF FLOOD VICTIM ARRIVE IN THIS CITY TODAY

Body of Mr. Frank Kearney, a Former Resident, Who Was Drowned in Columbus, Reaches Here on the Morning B. & O. Train--Other Members of the Family Still Missing.

The remains of the first flood victim to arrive in this city came in Wednesday morning over the B. & O. from Columbus, and was the body of Mr. Frank Kearney, aged 65 years, who lived at 347 South Glenwood avenue, Columbus.

The remains were met at the train by Funeral Director Klever and removed to the Klever undertaking establishment.

The remains were recovered from the debris Tuesday, and were identified by his son-in-law, E. F. Hartley.

Mr. Kearney lost his life while endeavoring to save some jewelry entrusted into his care by Mrs. Jane Miller, of Lorain, Ohio, who was visiting at the Kearney home.

When the flood swept the West Side, Mrs. Miller entrusted her money and jewelry into the care of Mr. Kearney, and when the flood was about to overwhelm them and they were about to reach a place of safety he recalled that he had forgotten the money and jewelry and returned to the house to secure it.

The delay proved fatal, and he was engulfed in the swirling flood and whirled to his death. His body was found some distance from the place where he lost his life. Mrs. Miller's watch and $15 in money was found upon his remains.

The remains of Mrs. E. F. Hartley and two-year-old son had not been recovered up to Wednesday morning.

Funeral services over the remains of Mr. Kearney will be held at the chapel in the local cemetery tomorrow afternoon at one o'clock. Burial in the Washington cemetery.

Consignment Of Rubber Boots For Dayton Workmen

Sixty-nine pairs of high top rubber boots with a man in charge arrived in this city on the east-bound B. & O. Tuesday evening, and were transferred here to the C. H. & D. for Dayton.

The boots were furnished by Supt. Hynes of the C. H. & D. and go to employees of the road in Dayton where they have been badly needed. Many of those who have been working in cleaning up the city and rebuilding the railroads, have been forced to work in mud which in many instances reaches to their knees.

Rescuers Recovering Many Dead From Debris

Grim Ruins Left By the Water Continues to Give Up Awful Evidence of Flood's Life Toll.

WORKERS ARE TIRELESS

Westside a Scene of Desolation But Men Are Making Progress Toward Better Conditions.

Columbus, Ohio, April 2nd.—With the recovery yesterday of eight additional bodies, the list of Columbus known flood victims has reached 70. All but two have been identified.

Most of the bodies found yesterday were in the lowlands between Mt. Calvary and Green Lawn Cemeteries and the territory immediately south. This section received the bodies from Glenwood, Centner, Rogers and Central avenues, which felt the full force of the West Side flood.

The district to the south is still partly covered with water from one to two feet deep or with a coat of slimy mud the same depth. None of the drift has been removed. When the water recedes, allowing searches to remove the mud and debris, it is expected that additional corpses will be given up.

Expect Many More.

From the number of inquiries at the morgue for missing ones, attendants are convinced that the death list will be greatly increased. Scores of persons from the flooded zone visit the West Town street morgue daily to leave descriptions of missing relatives, friends, and ask that they be notified if bodies answering such descriptions are brought in. Members of families, some of whose bodies have been recovered are missing.

Receives News That Sister And Family Perished

Charles Allemang, of Greenfield, brother to Acton Allemang, of Bloomingburg, and George and C. A. Allemang of Manara, passed through this city on his way to Columbus Tuesday evening, having received word that his sister, Mrs. John Shockley and family, had drowned in the West Side flood.

While Mr. Allemang received the news from another relative, the report has not been confirmed, and so far the Shockley family names have not appeared in the list of dead.

Mr. Allemang believes that the report may not be authentic, and is very anxious to ascertain the fate of his sister and family.

Pile Driver Detoured Over The D. T. & I. R. R.

It was later taken to Columbus and will be used night and day in repairing the tracks in western Columbus, where a week or ten days will be required to restore the tracks so they may be used temporarily.

RADICAL CHANCES NECESSARY IN THE PARCEL POST SYSTEM

Man Who Has Studied System Under Present Rules Brands It As Somewhat of a Joke in Some Respects, and Points Out Apparent Defects of the System.

The parcels post law, with all its advance advertising, is something of a joke to the man who tries to make practical use of it. The more a man tries to use it, the more he becomes convinced that it was drawn with exceeding care that it would not do any more damage than possible to our old and valued friends of parcels post, the express companies.

In the first place, the idea of having special stamps for parcels post packages is absolutely indefensible, unless it was to provide that a man would find it easier to telephone the express company to come for his package than it would be to run over to the postoffice to buy parcels post stamps.

Some of the rates, so fearfully and wonderfully made, based on the eight zones and the 2,000 or more squares into which the country was divided, are absolutely ridiculous. Say, for instance, that a man wanted to send five ounces of merchandise parcels post to Arizona. The cost would be eleven cents. For eleven cents he can take the same package to the postoffice, seal it at both ends and fasten it with beeswax and send it as first class mail for 10 cents. If he wanted to send six ounces to California, it costs just the same to send fourth class matter, subject to all delays which fourth class matter gets, that it costs to send it first class.

If a man wants to send a package into the second zone, if the package weighs over five pounds, nine times out of ten he can get better rates and better service by sending it by express. In addition to that the express company calls for the package; delivers it at the other end; gives a receipt for it, and if it is lost or damaged, the express company is liable. By parcels post, he is forced to carry the parcel to the postoffice and throw it four feet into a box, and he gets nothing to show that he ever put in there. And if it is broken, damaged or lost, the sender and the consignee can whistle for satisfaction.

The government was safe in including eggs in the matter which could be sent by parcels post. Eggs are shipped in thirty-dozen lots, and that weighs too much to send them by mail. And even if a man wants to buy a few dozen by mail by the time the exorbitant rates are paid for shipment, it would have been cheaper to buy eggs at home. The same with much other farm produce. As a means of getting the "producer and the consumer closer together" it is a great laugh.

This doesn't mean, of course, there are not some ways in which parcels post may be used to advantage; it is not all bad, of course; but the law is so unmistakably unjust in many of its provisions, that congress should take immediate steps to remedy them, if the postmaster general cannot do so.—The Week, Columbus, Ohio.

QUIT CALOMEL!

Thousands Are Turning from This Dangerous Drug.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute is Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a new laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials, mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like the old and untrustworthy calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects of calomel.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him years ago towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he is today in possession of the long-sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-oil colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They oil the bowels, and their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

They are gentle in their action, yet always effective. They bring about that exuberance of spirit, that natural buoyancy which should be enjoyed by everyone, by toning up the liver and clearing the system of harmful impurities. 10c and 25c per box.

Will Fill Vacancies In Diplomatic Service

Washington, April 2.—President Wilson will probably fill the nine ambassadorships now vacant, before the beginning of the extra session of congress next Monday.

The president expects to confer with many of his friends during the present week and it is believed that when congress convenes nominations for the more important posts will be sent to the senate.

Today's developments brought out that Walter H. Page, editor of World's Work and an intimate friend of Mr. Wilson, had been offered and had accepted the ambassadorship to Great Britain. White House officials confirmed the news and Mr. Page will start for London within ten days.

It was stated at the White House that with the exception of Mr. Page no offers had been made for any other diplomatic posts. The president has had under consideration a list of men to whom he is favorably inclined, but the chief difficulty has been that many of these men hail from New York state, which he feels already has had conspicuous recognition.

Augustus Thomas, the playwright, and William Church Osborne have been prominently mentioned for diplomatic places, chiefly France and Germany, but the fact that both come from the Empire state is said to be a circumstance that is giving the president no little embarrassment.

Mr. Wilson has been disposed to look further west for some of his diplomatic appointments and there came forward prominently the name of Rudolph Spreckles of San Francisco as probable ambassador to Germany. Mr. Spreckles practically organized and managed the Wilson Progressive Republican league, and his appointment it is said, would be a recognition of the president of the aid given him by Progressive Republicans in the late campaign.

The president has had a taste of the difficulties of tariff revision. Many of his callers come to talk for and against various schedules. To all the president listened patiently but gave not the slightest intimation of what was contained in the tariff schedules he is studying, or what would be his own attitude toward these subjects.

Planning To Amend The Famous Smith 1 Percent Law

Columbus, O., April 2.—To consider legislation which will permit county and municipal authorities to raise money immediately for restoring the millions of dollars worth of public property which has been destroyed by the recent floods, a consultation was held Monday by Attorney General Hogan, R. M. Ditty, president of the state tax committee, and Representative Robert Black of Cincinnati.

It was found that the emergency clause of the Smith one per cent. law is not broad enough to cover the present situation. It will be amplified to enumerate all of the emergencies arising now, for which taxes may be levied outside the limitations of the Smith law.

The matter will be further studied before action is definitely outlined. A suggested remedy is to pass a special act permitting county and municipal authorities to levy a special tax at once for the purpose of rebuilding bridges and culverts, replacing street paving, restoring sewers, and the like. The authorities then could issue bonds as soon as the tax is authorized. This and other remedial legislation will be presented to the legislature when it returns from the proposed recess of two weeks. Being taxation legislation, it would not be subject to the referendum and would become effective at once.

It is suggested that in the meantime the officials could dispose of the preliminary work necessary to reconstruction.

"The statement that the Smith law would have to go by the board is unfounded," said Representative Black. "By slight amendment it can be made to have sufficient elasticity to meet the present situation."

The section which permits county commissioners to levy five mills outside of the limitation for the purpose of rebuilding highways washed out by freshets was found insufficient in the present case. The loss in Franklin county alone is estimated at $2,000,000, half each for bridges in the county and bridges in the city, which would necessitate a levy of 6 2-3 mills. Distributed over a period of ten years by means of a bond issue, this would mean a tax of only one-half mill.

Before the entire reconstruction program is prepared information will be gathered from the various counties as to the maximum amount necessary to restore destroyed structures, so that the limitations under the emergency legislation may be fixed with certainty. It is believed that the situation, involving many incidental expenses great in the aggregate, which will exhaust the contingent funds, will require a general readjustment of taxation schedules.

DEATH IN WAKE OF GREAT DELUGE

8,000 Drowned by Floods
Throughout Middle West.

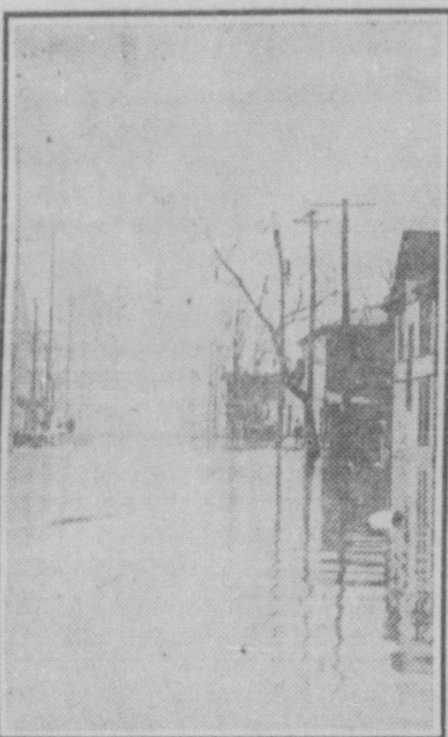

HALF MILLION HOMELESS.

Ohio, Indiana and Part of Pennsylvania Suffered Most Heavily in Worst Disaster of Its Kind in History—Work of Rescue Hampered by Rising Waters.

Columbus, O.—While Dayton, with 5,000 reported dead, suffered most from the floods that swept Ohio, Indiana and part of Pennsylvania, other cities were severely stricken. At Peru, Ind., it was said in reports to Governor Ralston that 500 or more lives had been lost.

Columbus also suffered enormous damage from the flood. Railroad traffic was paralyzed. Fires raged for many hours and for a time threatened considerable portion of the district. Because of the flood firemen were unable to respond to the appeals.

Conditions at Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Kokomo and other places in central Indiana were the worst in many years. In every part of the state there were reported disastrous inundations. At Lafayette two spans of a bridge went out. Two were reported dead. West Lafayette, where Purdue university is situated was cut off when the levees were broken by the force of the waters of the Wabash river. The river is two miles wide and rising rapidly.

At Indianapolis thousands were driven from their homes, and four deaths were said to have resulted from drowning. The pumping plant was forced to suspend operations, and the city is without fire protection.

At Peru property damage of $500,000 was caused by the flood. It was reported. Logansport also was under water.

Governor Ralston received a frantic appeal from Connersville, Ind., for aid for many sufferers there from the flood. It was said that the White river had broken over its banks and that there had ensued great loss of life.

The entire business district of Rushville and part of the residence section is under water. One person is reported drowned. The courthouse practically was the only dry place in the city, and it was crowded with refugees who had been driven from their homes.

Cincinnati experienced a cloudburst which started the Ohio river rising rapidly and flooded many of the streets. Families in the low lands below Millions were warned in time and fled to higher ground before the sweep of waters reached that place.

A big dam a short distance north of Akron, O., burst, and horsemen were hurried through the valley in different directions to warn the people of the impending danger. Hundreds of farmers with their families fled to higher ground.

The great bridge over the Miami river at Middletown, O., collapsed. Fifteen persons were reported missing at that place. Several houses were seen floating down the river, which was a raging torrent.

Sweeping up the Ohio valley from the west, the third storm in ten days devastated different sections between Louisville and Cincinnati. In Kentucky and in extensive districts in Illinois, southwestern Ohio and Indiana. At Louisville the wind maintained a velocity of sixty miles an hour.

Several persons were reported killed at Makanda, Ill., although the report could not be confirmed. A freight train was blown from the tracks of the Illinois Central railroad, and two of the crew were injured.

Other cities affected by the flood and storm are:

Lima, O.—Flooded by the Ottawa river. Ten miles of trains held up there by a washout at Middle Point.

Springfield, O.—Mad river and Buck creek both out of their banks and several hundred houses flooded. Many factories compelled to close.

Laruse, O.—Inundated. Many persons homeless and much suffering.

West Liberty, O.—Mad river overrunning its banks.

Port Wayne, Ind.—St. Joseph, Maumee and St. Mary rivers on a rampage. Town without lights and water famine threatened. Highest water in twenty years.

Marion, Ind.—Five hundred persons forced to flee for their lives.

Ellwood, Ind.—Three hundred persons homeless.

St. Louis.—One person known to have been drowned and many families in the western part of the city forced to leave their homes by sudden rise of the Des Peres river.

Broda Ripple, Ind.—One thousand feet of railroad track washed out.

Youngstown, O.—Fourteen thousand men idle by reason of the closing down of mills and factories. The flood is the worst that this city has experienced in many years.

At Delaware, twenty-five miles north of Columbus, from nineteen to fifty are reported drowned as a result of the flood. The town also is isolated, with the exception of intermittent telegraph service. One part of the town is cut off from the other because the river channel runs practically through its center, thus handicapping rescue work. At Middletown it is reported that fifteen were drowned when a bridge from which a crowd was watching the flood was swept away. Several bodies were recovered from the stream.

Cleveland, Akron, Toledo and Springfield also have sent out reports which show that probably a total of sixteen lost their lives.

Because of the proportions of the flood which washed out practically every bridge of steam and electric roads leading out of Columbus, nearly all train service was annulled, and operations likely will be indefinite for several days. State troops at the order of Governor Cox patrol the streets in the flooded sections, and scores of automobiles are busy carrying the suffering to higher ground.

It was estimated that the total deaths would reach 8,000, with hundreds of thousands homeless.

AWAY WITH SHAVES AND HIGH COLLARS

Women Will Legislate Them Out of Existence For Poor Man.

Chicago.—When the Ohio legislature attempted to legislate against the extreme styles in women's dress it little knew what it was starting. Mrs. L. Brackett Bishop, endorsed by the Chicago Woman's club, the National Dress-makers' association, the Milliners' National organization and the Association of Commerce, announces that she intends to maintain a "bureau of correct dress for men" in Washington and try to bring about legislation against these things:

High collars.
Pandemonium vests,
Loud neckties.
The common hairbrush and comb.
Derby hats.
Shaves and short hair cuts.
Starbed shirts.

"Men are becoming bald from wearing tight, stiff hats," said Mrs. Bishop. "They wear tight collars and high collars. They look binding and uncomfortable and hot. Yet their wearers declare they keep wrinkles out of the neck and prevent double chins. The stiff straw and the stiff derby, the stiff shirt, the ugly brogan, the nightmare tie and the cubist vest will all be eliminated by the committee if possible.

"Men keep their faces shaved, clip off their beards and wear their hair short. Nature intended him to have his hair rolling about his shoulders, his beard protecting his Adam's apple from the chilling blast and his mustache keeping the cinders and dust from his mouth and nose.

"The hairbrush and comb should go with the drinking cup. We are organized for the protection of man and we are going to dress him right and comfortably."

New York.—Tornadoes and destructive high winds have been of frequent occurrence in the United States in the last few years. Although these winds are commonly called "cyclones," scientists distinguish between the cyclone and the tornado. The cyclone is a widespread "low area storm" moving in an elliptical path. The tornado drops with a single burst of violence.

Of these the most destructive to life and property was the St. Louis tornado, which took place on May 27, 1896, just before the time set for the national Republican convention. The damage to property in St. Louis and its vicinity amounted to close to $8,000,000, and the loss of life was estimated at more than 450. The injured numbered twice that many.

During the two weeks preceding the disaster of St. Louis the southern and western states had been visited by tornadoes which demolished everything in their path. On May 15 a storm plowed its way through northern Texas, killing 200 persons and damaging $1,000,000 worth of property. On May 17 Kansas and Kentucky were visited with great property loss, although the loss of life was small. Nearly every house in La Fontaine, Kan., was destroyed on May 23, and three days later eleven persons were killed as a result of a tornado at Cairo, Ill.

In St. Louis 720 street blocks were a mass of ruins, and scarcely a building in the path of the storm escaped injury. In East St. Louis the devastation was as great as in St. Louis proper. Fire added to the destruction, and as the streets were littered with rubbish the fire department was helpless. The fire loss alone was more than $1,000,000. The dead in St. Louis numbered 202 and seventy-four missing, and in East St. Louis the dead numbered 151.

There have been several other visitations of death dealing tornadoes in the United States. Two of the most fatal took place in Adams, Miss., on May 5, 1840, when 317 persons were killed, and on June 16, 1842, a storm killed 500. Early in April, 1880, the lower Missouri towns of Barry, Stone, Webster and Christian suffered life and property loss. Almost a hundred persons were killed and 600 injured, and $1,000,000 worth of property was destroyed. Twenty-two persons were killed and seventy-two injured on April 25 of the same year in Noxubee county, Miss. On May 28 forty were killed and eighty-three injured in Fan-county, Tex., and twenty killed in Pottawatomie county, Ia., on June 10 the same year.

On July 15, 1881, 247 buildings were wrecked at New Ulm, Minn., and on Aug. 23 a cyclone swept from Savannah to Minnesota, killing 400. In the year 1882 more than 300 persons were killed in various towns. At McAlester, Indian Territory, on May 10, 120 were killed. On June 17 at Grinnell, Ia., 100 persons were killed, 300 injured and a property loss of $1,000,000 sustained. On June 24 that year at Emmetsburg 100 more were killed.

In 1883 the loss of life numbered ninety-three. Fifty-one lost their lives in Mississippi on April 22, and on May 18 sixteen perished at Racine, Wis. In Dodge and Olmstead counties, Minn., twenty-six were killed and eighty injured on Aug. 21.

On Feb. 9, 1884, an unparalleled series of storms struck eight states simultaneously. Illinois, Kentucky, Mississippi, Georgia, Tennessee, Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina were visited by more than sixty tornadoes. Eight hundred persons lost their lives, 2,500 were injured, and 10,000 buildings were destroyed. On Sept. 9 of that year in eastern Minnesota and western Wisconsin seventy-five persons were killed and $4,000,000 worth of property was destroyed.

Coming down to recent times, eight states were swept by a tornado on April 24, 1908, which left a trail of dead numbering more than 300. Most of the deaths occurred in the black belts of Louisiana and Georgia, where the wind destroyed the cabins, burying the occupants in the debris. In Louisiana the dead numbered 88, and 350 were injured; in Mississippi 150 dead, 600 injured; Alabama, 31 dead, 113 injured, and in Georgia 25 dead, 100 injured, or more than 300 in four states.

On April 30, 1909, Tennessee experienced one of the worst tornadoes ever known in that state. Sixty-two persons were killed, and the property loss was almost $1,000,000. Five other states were also visited on the same day, but the loss of life was small.

On May 2, 1912, the village of Korn, Okla., was wiped out and twenty-one lives were lost. On June 15 Vilagony, another small village in Oklahoma, was wiped out and four were killed. The following day the tornado tore its way through Bates county and parts of Johnson and Henry counties, Kan., killing twenty-seven persons.

Nearly 100 persons were killed on March 14 of this year by the storm which swept seven states. In Georgia the storm was accompanied by earth shocks, and twenty-nine persons were killed. The property loss amounted to $1,000,000 or more. In Tennessee twenty-six were killed, Alabama thirteen and Mississippi thirteen.
